welcome to the 2019 cookham Festival...

It's Festival time and once again Cookham lays out its store of talent to engage and entertain. Our very first Cookham Festival was held in 1967 and over the years the scope and attendance has grown such that the Festival is now the largest community activity in the Cookhams as well as being one of the major arts events in the area. We attract more than 15,000 people over the duration of the Festival and we have a policy of making the ticket prices exceptional value and curating a range of events for all ages: from bumps and babies to our community's oldest residents and everyone in between.

This year is no exception. Music, as ever, features prominently with everything from folk and the Big Band sound, through pop and rock – the latter at the now annual Let's Rock the Moor - to brilliant brass and classical choral pieces. And our young primary school performers will be on stage to delight us too, this year with a World Premiere – Katie Cox and the Rhythm of the River, written by local musician and composer Rob Castell. And if that's not enough we will be hosting a full orchestral Family Concert featuring Peter and the Wolf.

The visual arts also plays a prominent role with the Sculpture Garden now a major national attraction. The Cookham Arts Club has challenged its members to Square Up to Cookham and capture a moment in time on a 30x30 cm canvas. You can also accompany Timmy Mallett as he makes his epic painting pilgrimage by bike from Cookham to Santiago de Compostela, and the Festival will also be hosting an exhibition of photos collected as part of the Wild about Cookham Photography Competition. Art professionals will provide expert guidance and tuition to all ages over the first weekend in the Arts Hub.

We're delighted that Richard James will return for a one man show 'The Seven Ages of Shakespeare' and will also be entertaining our younger audience with stories from The Wonderful World of Walliams! We will also be telling the remarkable story of Holy Trinity Church's own anchoress, holed up in a cell to pray for the sins of Henry II. Plus, you can learn to dance and attend numerous talks, poetry and the riotously funny Festival Comedy Club.

This year, for your convenience, every event can be booked online as well as by post and from The Stationery Depot.

The Festival happens because of the time and energy of many people in our community. In particular the Festival Committee and an army of Festival Makers who curate the events and make it possible. Our thanks to them – and of course to you – without which there would be no Festival.

Thank you.

Malcolm Stork, Chairman

Your Festival Needs You!

As you read this programme and look at the number of events you will realise the amount of organisation that goes on behind the scenes. Crucial to this work are our volunteers, the Festival Makers, who do the work of helping set up venues, collecting tickets, stewarding, supervising exhibitions and staffing the bars.

The Festival Committee is always looking for extra help and everyone is welcomed. So, if you are interested why not contact the Festival Maker Coordinator, Freddie Daniel, email freddie_daniel@yahoo.co.uk to discuss further.

The Sculpture Garden

Odney Club, Odney Lane SL6 9SR.

Adult £2. U16s free entry.

The Sculpture Garden is one of the Festival highlights, attracting collectors and admirers across Britain to view the artwork and to explore the fabulous grounds of the Odney Club.

For a sixth year Lucy Irvine of Barn Galleries has curated a fantastic exhibition of outdoor sculpture. On display in 2019 are the latest works by both internationally known and collected artists, and local sculptors.

This year's exhibition boasts a feast of extravagant colours, elaborate works and exotic materials. Look out for kinetic works, giant peacock feathers and oversized coloured pencils.

Be inspired by the sculptures large and small. With every piece on sale, you are sure to discover a work that adds a new dimension to your garden. Visit www.thesculpturegarden.co.uk to see participating artists.

The Festival organisers are grateful to the John Lewis Partnership and everyone at the Odney Club for hosting the Sculpture Garden.

Purchases can be made on site or by contacting curator Lucy Irvine (mob 07976 612623, email lucy@barn Galleries.com).
